Additional areas of work:

- Positions were realigned in summer 2019 to create a Coordinator of Student Academic Success Services. Kathleen Swain was hired for this position and will oversee areas of service already in place, such as tutoring, internships, and advisory boards, as well as a new service of academic success coaching. Kathleen presented to all faculty at an in-service session, letting them know of how the new service could assist students with time management and career planning. She will travel to each campus as needed for appointments as well as offering Zoom sessions with students.

- News releases were distributed for Fall 2019, announcing NOC’s policy of offering up to 6 hours tuition-free for juniors in addition to the 18 hours currently offered for seniors.

- In fall in-service meetings for faculty and adjunct orientation meetings, the policy for keeping attendance was reviewed with a strong emphasis on the need for accurate records to ensure students are not required later to return overawarded financial aid.

- Tonkawa tutoring was re-centralized in the Center for Cultural Engagement, beginning Fall 2019. New tables and white boards were brought in to create study centers. Kathleen Swain provided tutor training. These efforts were to keep better track through the check-in system of when tutoring was most needed and to allow for cross-training to better serve students.

The plan is to share these with employees by Oct. 1 when lists are finalized. NOC Stillwater employees currently have access to the same coupon books that are made available to students, and both Whataburger and Mazzios provide additional coupons throughout the year for all employees.
  - Present request to executive council for flex scheduling.
Policies for flex scheduling were approved through a review of the Employee Handbook in spring and summer 2019. Employees may now submit requests to their supervisor with additional approval confirmed by the President and documentation filed in HR.

  Communication protocol is included in the new employee mentoring checklist; additional training opportunities related to communication strategies will be addressed in the professional development sessions noted below.

  Dr. DeLisa Ging’s role was expanded in Fall 2019 to coordinate not only faculty professional development but also staff training options. Fall 2019 training opportunities were set in 2018-2019. Spring 2020 sessions were expanded to provide more versatile sessions that faculty and staff would be able to participate in from their desks or in shifts if work stations needed to be covered. The following webinars will be made available in 2019-2020:

The first presentation would focus on the importance of a Jerusalem archeological site to world history. Retracing the historical steps of the Via Dolorosa, Jesus' route from Pilate's judgement hall to Golgotha, would be the second presentation's focus. These presentations are the result of interest in the information Steve presented during in-service activities.

o Revise employee satisfaction survey to add more questions on quality of life issues.

As with the student satisfaction survey, this instrument has been used since the launch of the 2013-2018 Strategic Plan but was revised in spring 2019, as part of the 2019-2025 planning year, to include questions on what employees considered most important to quality of life. In addition, they are eligible for half of on-campus residence hall room charges/double-room occupancy per semester. Primarily used for Northern’s Pilot Hemp Program, these funds were designated by the NOC Board of Regents during their May 2019 meeting to purchase a High Performance Liquid Chromatograph (HPLC), approximately $50,000 (Private Funds). This machine will be able to meet the needs for testing the THC levels for the Hemp project as well as used for Chem I, Chem II, Process Organic Chem and PTEC courses.

additional $25,000 to both NOC Foundation and NWOSU Foundation in support of additional scholarships.

- In August 2019, the NOC Foundation received another amazing unrestricted gift of $500,000. This one-time distribution came from the same family trust as our December 2018 - $1.5 million gift.
