Dr. Shelly Mancacci named new VPAA

Dr. Shelly Mancacci has been named the Northern Oklahoma College Vice President for Academic Affairs, effective Aug. 5. The announcement was made by NOC President Diana Watkins on Monday.

Mancacci is currently at North Arkansas College where she is an associate vice-president.

"I'm excited to become part of the leadership team at Northern Oklahoma College," said Dr. Mancacci. "My goal is to empower our community through education. I'll be working closely with others to create and enhance economic opportunities in our area, while also improving resources for students of all ages across the regions we serve. Northern Oklahoma College has long been a cultural center and educational hub, and I'm committed to building on that legacy to benefit our students and community."

Watkins said she is excited with what Dr. Mancacci will bring to NOC.

"We had a strong applicant pool for the position of Vice President of Academic Affairs and a committee comprised of individuals from all three campuses went through two rounds of zoom interviews before selecting two finalists to come tour all three campuses and meet with the Executive Council," Watkins said.

"I am thrilled Dr. Shelly Mancacci accepted the offer to join the Executive Council at Northern. Her experience in strategic planning and working with faculty and division chairs at a multi-campus institution will be extremely valuable as we begin drafting NOC's 2025-2030 strategic plan. As a first-generation student herself, one with lived experience from rural Choctaw Nation Oklahoma, she is excited to continue the efforts of our Native American Serving Non-Tribal Institute Grant, "Connecting Students to Promising Pathways" and will relate well to our students many of whom are the first in their families to attend college."

Reporting directly to the president, Mancacci will be responsible for providing an institution-wide vision, leadership and strategic direction for academic programs. In her position, she will provide oversight and leadership for all functions of academic affairs for the college, a multi-campus institution. Mancacci will work closely with the president, other vice presidents, academic division chairs and program directors to facilitate the overall mission of the college and provide the vision and leadership that promote and support a commitment to academic achievement, excellence in instructional methodology, assessment of teaching and learning and student success.

Mancacci is a born-and-raised Oklahoman with two decades of higher education experience predominately within the community college sector.

She began her career as a graduate assistant at Southeastern Oklahoma State University and has since evolved to spearhead the advancement of modern curriculum and innovative teaching methodologies. Her leadership in both academic and student services has been pivotal in enhancing educational programs to meet evolving industry demands and student needs.

She holds a Ph.D. in the field of Education from Texas Woman's University, underpinning her commitment to academic excellence. She is dedicated to fostering critical thinking and cultivating hopefulness in educational environments to empower students for prosperous futures.

Her expertise spans curriculum development, strategic planning, and fostering collaborative partnerships to enrich the academic experience.

Outside of her professional endeavors, she cherishes quality time with family and friends. She finds rejuvenation in outdoor activities and pursues hobby gardening as a creative outlet.

Dr. Mancacci remains focused on advancing the mission; to provide transformative educational opportunities preparing students to thrive in a rapidly changing landscape.

NOC establishes new Gateway Student Scholarship Fund

The Northern Oklahoma College Foundation, Inc. acknowledges the establishment of the NOC Gateway Student Scholarship Fund.

Through the generous support of NOC science instructor Christopher Storm and his wife Dr: Juliana Nykolaiszyn, the establishment of this restricted scholarship fund will provide students an opportunity to pursue their educational goals at Northern Oklahoma College.

“A college education can provide many things, including new beginnings and experiences,” Storm said. “Juliana and I experienced many of the financial issues that many of our students face. We both were in the workforce, barely making ends meet. We decided to go back to college and, through hard work and balancing the needs of being students and workers, ultimately achieved our dreams of Juliana becoming a librarian and me becoming an educator. This would not have been possible without financial assistance.”

“By setting up this scholarship fund, we hope to do our small part in advancing lifelong learning and the career trajectory of NOC-OSU Gateway students,” he added.

“This fund was also created to serve as a readily available option for anybody to assist our great NOC students attending the Stillwater campus.

All alumni, families, individuals, organizations, and businesses that want to assist these students are welcome and fully encouraged to contribute to this great cause,” he said.

NOC President Diana Watkins thanked the Storm family for their generosity and the impact of the scholarship.

“I am extremely excited about the creation of this scholarship for NOC/OSU Gateway students,” Watkins said. “The fact that it was established by a faculty member in our Physical Science Division underscores what I know to be true about our faculty and staff at NOC: they truly embrace our tagline of Life Changing. Assisting college students financially is, in fact, ‘Life Changing.’”

This scholarship, established by the Storm Family of Stillwater, Oklahoma, seeks to empower and support students who are striving to overcome financial barriers and achieve their academic goals. Geared toward the NOC/OSU Gateway Program, the Storm Family is committed to supporting NOC Stillwater students.

The Storm Family’s goal is to move toward a permanently restricted endowed fund in the future.

Applications must be made through the NOC Scholarship Office. The recipient must be a non-traditional full-time or part-time NOC or Gateway student and preferably a single parent who has completed 12 academic credit hours including at least one credit hour at NOC Stillwater and have a cumulative 2.50 grade point average or higher.

Oklahoma State University students attending NOC Stillwater do not qualify.

The NOC Stillwater scholarship committee shall determine the recipient(s) with input from the Storm family. The NOC Institutional Scholarship office shall administer the award.

NOC Foundation establishes Dr. Robert “Bob” Matthiesen Memorial Scholarship

The Northern Oklahoma College Foundation, Inc. is pleased to announce the establishment of the Dr. Robert “Bob” Matthiesen Memorial Scholarship fund.

Through the generous support of the NOC Agriculture and Biological Science Department, this fund will assist high school seniors who have participated in the NOC Ag Inter-scholastic Contest with the opportunity to achieve their educational goals at Northern Oklahoma College in Tonkawa.

Dr. Robert Lee Matthiesen, affectionately known as “Dr. Bob” was a professor of Science and Agriculture at NOC from 1993 until his retirement in 2004. He dearly loved farming, which he jokingly referred to as his hobby, and he dearly loved teaching at NOC. It gave him great joy to help his students. He was a “do-gooder” in all aspects of his life. His goal was always to make things better for people he interacted with.

NOC President Diana Watkins is excited for the scholarship opportunity.

“Dr. Matthiesen had just retired when I began teaching at Northern, but I’m certainly familiar with the impact he had on ag students at NOC,”
