How Your Recipient Can Whitelist Your Email

How to whitelist an email in Gmail:

- Log into your Gmail account.
- Click the gear icon in the upper-right corner and choose "See all settings" from the drop-down.

- Go to the “Filters and blocked addresses” tab to view your current filters and blocked addresses.
- Click “Create a new filter” and input the email address or domain (@noc.edu) you want to whitelist in the “From” field.

- After that, click “Create filter” and make sure to select “Never send to spam” to ensure the emails are whitelisted.
- 💡 Note: To whitelist a single sender, type the entire address. On the other hand, if you’re trying to whitelist every sender from a certain domain, type the domain alone, such as “@noc.edu”. This will set Gmail spam settings to approve every message from an NOC sender.

How to Whitelist an Email in Gmail Application (Android & iOS)

Unlike the desktop version, you can't access your filters and blocked addresses on Mobile devices (irrespective of iOS or Android). Instead, what you can do is add a sender's email address to your contact list. This will give them uninterrupted access to sending email to you.

And to whitelist an email from your spam folder in Gmail in iOS devices, follow these steps:

1. Open your spam folder and locate the email you wish to whitelist.
2. At the top of the message, you'll notice a gray box with the option "Report as not spam."
3. Click this button to inform Google that you want to receive future emails from this sender.
4. Alternatively, you can tap the three dots in the upper right corner of the email and select the same option.

Here's how you can whitelist an email in Android:

1. Launch the "Contacts" app.
2. Tap the "Add contact" button located at the bottom left.
3. Fill in the contact's name and email address, ensuring it's linked to the correct account.
4. Once completed, press "Save" to store the contact.
