Lady Mavs' lose to NOC Enid

Sheby Rayner and Jordan Holman combined for 43 points but it wasn't enough in an 80-74 loss to NOC Enid Saturday night.

The Lady Mavs (11-12) fell to 6-7 in the OCAC while the Lady Jets (10-7) improved to 8-4 in conference.

NOC Tonkawa led the Lady Jets 32-30 at half but the Lady Jets outscored the Lady Mavs 30-19 in the third period to take a 60-52 lead.

The Lady Mavs battled back cutting the lead to 73-72 with 2:49 left but the Lady Jets outscored the Lady Mavs 7-2 the rest of the way.

Rayner led the Lady Mavs with 24 while Holman had 19 despite battling foul trouble. Travi-sha Cogdell also reached double figures with 11. Cogdell led the Lady Mavs with nine rebounds.

"Our defense on the ball and weakside defensive help and rotation were not strong in the second half," said coach Greg Krause. "We need to work toward putting two good halves together. I think it's important to put a good run together in our last three games before heading into playoffs."

Living in Dorms by Savannah Chenoweth

Living on campus is one of the things students look forward to when entering college yet depending on where you live everyone's experience is different.

The majority of students attending Northern Oklahoma College are from communities in close proximity to campus.

Kennedy Williams is a freshman from Perry, Oklahoma. Perry, located 28 miles south of Tonkawa, allows Williams the convenience of traveling home as needed.

"Living on campus is fun because you get to be around for all of the activities as well as being able to actually experience dorm life," Williams explained. "I like that I get to hang out with my friends on campus, but also have the chance to go home when I want to see my family."

NOC can be an excellent choice for students who live locally and want to stay close to home. They have the option of commuting, but staying in the dorms allows them to get the full college experience.

Students who live farther away must resort to staying on campus even on the weekends. However, there are many activities and things to do on campus where students can stay busy.

Larissa Haagsma is a sophomore student-athlete from Almere, The Netherlands. She is a member of the NOC Soccer team and lives in the dorms.

Because Haagsma lives on campus all semester, she keeps herself busy when she does not have class or practice.

"I don't mind staying on campus during the weekends, because quite a lot of my friends stay too," Haagsma comments. "I take time to relax and catch up with everything I need to do. I try to go to some games, like baseball or basketball."

There are many dorms available to choose from on campus. Regardless of which dorm students live in, there are many activities to stay busy with on weekends.
