

NOC bookstores offering new merchandise

The NOC Bookstores in Enid and Tonkawa have a new brand for this spring.

The bookstores are selling upcycled hoodies, sweatshirts, scarves, pillows, bucket hats, and pouches that are made from Northern clothing that was either damaged, misprinted, or did not sell in its original format.

Bookstore assistant manager Matthew Caldwell said, "These items would have been discarded and thrown away in most cases in the past. Instead, we sent them to a company called ReFried who receives apparel from different sources all around the country cuts it apart and makes new items."

"They took the graphics from the items that we sent them and added it with material that they already had to make new items," he added.

Items available are at the following link. <https://www.nocbookstore.com/category/10004161>

Caldwell said ReFried is just starting to reach the collegiate market but have been partnered with the NFL and MLB for some time.

Bookstore Survey

The bookstore is also participating in the National Student Watch survey. It is conducted by OnCampus research which is a part of the National Association of College Stores.

The survey is planned to be open until Feb. 28 and gives the bookstore a lot of useful information that can be used to help serve the students
